Mr. Snay formerly lived in Middle bury, and he afterward served at his trade as a stone mason in Bellows Falls. He came to Brattleboro when the repairs on the town house were begun, and he worked on that job until it was finished. Since then he has been employed at the Brattle boro Retreat. He leaves a widow and one son, Frank, who works in the Carpenter organ factory.

The New York Central Railroad com pany filed a petition this week for an appeal in the matter of the sale of the Central Vermont railroad to the Grand Trunk Railroad company. When the sale was made by Judge Waterman of Brattleboro at St. Albans a representative of the New York Central Railroad company entered a protest against the sale on ground that the rights of that company had not been properly considered, and he asked that the protest be made a part of the report of the special master. Judge Waterman paid no attention to the court was held in Brattleboro for the pur pose of affirming the sale the company objected to the acceptance of the report but the objection was not sustained.

The Boston & Maine Railroad company has issued to its employes an order requir-ing them, in order to maintain accurate and uniform time, to equip themselves with watches the minimum grade of which shall be of a standard known among American watches as "seventeen jewelled, patent regulator," adjusted to temperature and not less than three positions, and in ch a state of repair that they vary over 30 seconds a week. The watches must be inspected semi-annually by in-spectors named by the company. The order means that a large number of the employes will have to buy new watches.

Charles Deyo pleaded guilty before Justice W. S. Newton Monday morning to the charge of intoxication and was fined 35 and costs, amounting to $11.56, which he paid. He disclosed that on Saturday night he went to the brewery and bought of Charles Horton two glasses of lager beer and a pint of whiskey. He drank the whiskey during the night, and toward morning he got into a row with his family, turning them out of the house. He bore on his head a gash which he said was inflicted by a club in the hands of his wife. Members of the family summoned Policeman Balley soon after 6 o'clock Sunday morning and he and poilceman Thaver arrested Devo and put him in the lockup, where he remained until he was arraigned.

James D. Welch, an Inmate of the Bratdeboro Retreat who has become well known to the people of Brattleboro through some of his peculiar characteristics, died of apoplexy at the Retreat early Monday morning. Little is known of his early life and his age cannot be told exactly, but it is thought that he was 76 years old. He was born in Scotland and he went to Canada when a young man. His family were formerly steamship owners and were among the wealthy people of Canada. Mr. Welch came to the Retreat from Quebec 47 years ago and during his residence here he never had an illness or a delusion. has come to be generally understood that at times he fancied himself a horse, but he never had such an idea. He had a habit of making abrupt stops and of turning square corners, and he walked from seven to ten miles every day. He was buried Wednesday in Prospect Hill cemetery in accordance with his wish and the wish of the

D. M. Barber vs. Town of Dummerston, The suit of D. M. Barber against the town of Dummerston, an action to recover for damage done to sheep by dogs, was heard in Justice Merrifield's office Saturday, the hearing beginning at 10 o'clock and continuing to 5 o'clock. Eight witnesses were examined, six for the plaintiff and two for the defendant town. H. G. Barber and J. L. Martin were the plaintiff's attorneys, and Haskins & Schwenk were the attorneys for the town. The testimony of the plaintiff's witnessess tended to show that in June, 1893, dogs got into Mr. Barber's flock of sheep in Dummerston, killed eight lambs and one sheep, bit two lambs badly, damaged the rest of the flock by chasing and worrying them, and that the two lambs bitten were subsequently killed by dogs. The lambs weighed from 70 to 75 pounds each and were valned at eight cents a pound. The amount claimed for damages was $110. The defendant's testimony tended to show that only two lambs were killed and two were bitten. The damage was set at $13 30 by Selectman Lewis Lynde, which amount was increased to $19.30 by Selectman Estey after the two bitten lambs were killed. The plaintiff claimed that the appraisal was not made in good faith and that it was not made according to the statute which provided that it should be made before Dec. 31 following, Mr. Barber not receiving notification of the appraisal until Feb-uary, 1894. The defendant's counsel

Clark Chase of Bellows Falls has bought three more houses in Springfield, Mass., for investment, exchanging in part two houses in Somerville, Mass. One of the houses in Somerville has been exchanged for the Thomas Clark farm, near the Dummerston ferry, owned by Mrs. Annie M. Silva. The Clark farm was sold to Henry R. Brown of Brattleboro. Over $25,000 worth of property changed hands in the transactions, which were conducted through F. J. Bailey's agency.

The North Adams Transcript of Tuesday had the following in reference to the performer who will be the star attraction at Brookside Park next week: "Santanelli, the hypnotist, gave a remarkably satisfactory performance at the Wilson thea-tre last evening. He had a class of a dozen and a good sized first night audience. All of his work was very good, and in his final work, the production of 'living pictures', he excelled any hypnotist who has ever been seen here. It is well worth while to spend some time and energy to see these groups, which offer remarkable character studies."

The assignees of A. F. & L. E. Kelley of Minneapolis have sent to Brattleboro this week several release bianks to be signed by their creditors. According to the terms mentioned in the documents the creditors who sign them agree to accept whatever dividends the assignees are abl to pay and to make no further claims against the estate. A dividend of 10 per cent on the estate of A. F. & L. E. Kelley will be paid at once and it is probable another dividend of 10 per will be paid later. It is expected that a dividend of 20 per cent will be paid to the creditors of the individual estate of A. F.

An interesting condition prevails at the Flynt quarry which the company has thus far been able to meet, said the Monson, Mass., correspondent of the Springfield Republican Saturday. The company has been furnishing stone on one contract from its quarry at Dummerston, VL, where most of the employes are non-union men. Some of it was sent to Monson to be set. One of the union cutters at the Monson quarry was given a stone Thursday which he understood came from the Dummerston quarry. He refused to cut it. The Italian cutters were then given the Vermont stones, and the union smiths refused to sharpen their tools. The company has thus far cut its stone, but the outcome is awaited with interest. Mr. Flynt said yesterday that he did not know that any of the men in the Monson quar-ry were members of the union. Work is mewhat slack and he thought the men would be glad of the work. If they prefer to loaf they can do so. The company has always been able to hire all the men eeded and expect to be able to continue Stolte Brothers in the Swim.

Last week Thursday morning F. W. tolte, his brother D. Stolte and a friend, F. A. W. Field, started for Newport in canoe, via Clyde river, starting near the Essex House. A short distance from the starting point the canoe was upset by overoverhanging branches, and the three were swimming for the shore. This incident caused the loss of a pot of beans (pot included) other provisions soaked, and a kodak spoiled. Nowise discouraged they proceeded, and after encountering various minor mishaps they reached West Charles ton Thursday night where George Brackett took them in and dried their clothing. They made an early start Friday morning and reached Newport shortly after noon, and having a great sufficiency of canoe exthey returned home by team. Don't say "canoe" or "beans" to either of the gentlemen mentioned in this little adventure; such words have no charm for them,—[Island Pond Berald.

FLOATING IN RIVER.

Tuesday

By James Lillis and Michael Cavanaugh Identified as that of Wilbur Welch Who was Drowned at Walpole, N. H. July 9.

A man's body bearing evidence of having been in the water several days was found in the Connecticut river a short distance above the mouth of Broad brook Tuesday afternoon by Michael Cavanaugh and James Lillis, who were on their way down the river in a boat. Cavanaugh and Lillis started about noon for Broad brook, where they were to spend the remainder of the day fishing. About a quarter of a mile above their destination Lillis noticed something floating in an eddy close to the shore, which he though tat first to be a log. He pointed it out to Cavanaugh, who was rowing the boat, remarking as the boat drew nearer that it looked to him like a man in swimming.

Soon it became evident that the object was the body of a drowned man and Cavanaugh rowed in shore for closer investigation. The body, which was naked, was floating face downward and was scraped and bruised as if it had been in the water some time. It evidently was that of a large man of about middle-age. Cavan-augh tied a piece of fish line to one leg of the body and towed it to shore, leaving i in charge of Lillis while he came to Brattleboro to notify the selectmen. Undertakers Hackley & Moran were first notified and Cavanaugh then went to see Select-man Vinton. Mr. Vinton said that the body was within the jurisdiction of the town of Hinsdale, N. H., and that the authorities there should be informed. Mr. Hackley accordingly notified Undertaker Wetherbee of Hinsdale, who, after consultation with the selectmen there, sent a team to take the body to that town.

Cavanaugh and Lillis, who were presen when the body was taken out of the water, state that the face was bruised and swoller beyond recognition and that all the half had fallen off the head. The man evidently had been well developed and would have weighed when alive nearly 200 pounds.

according to Cavanaugh's estimate. On Sunday, July 9, Wilbur Welch, who worked for Albert H. Watkins in Walpole, N. H., was drowned in the river while bathing near the Watkins farm. The body was searched for but it was not The Hinsdale authorities notified Mr. Watkins of the finding of the body Tnesday and Mr. Watkins came to Brattle boro on the afternoon train and drove to Hinsdale and identified the body as that others have signed them since then. AROUND THE WORLD.

Body Found Near Broad Brook C. Fred Childs Starts on His Journey Tonight.

> He Will Be Entertained in the Royal Houses in Japan, and Will Have Exceptional Advantages for Traveling Inland in Japan, China and Java,

> C. Fred Childs, who graduated from Yale last month with honors, starts tonight at 10.10 on his journey around the world, to occupy a year's time. He makes the trip for its educational and informing advantages. He will travel on no regular schedule, but will spend his time as he sees fit in places which he finds the most intereating. He will go first to Montreal, and after a day from there over the Canadian Pacific railroad, with a side trip to Chillicothe, Ohio, where he will remain two or three days with Yale friends, and to Chicago, where he will be guest of former class-mates a week and will make a cruise on the lakes with them. On the way across the continent be will stay a few days at Banff Hot Springs and at the Glacier House, two noted Rocky Mountain resorts in the Canadian Northwest territory. After a short visit in Portland, Oregon, he will go to Vancouver, British Columbia, to embark there August 21 on a steamer bound for Japan.

> Mr. Childs will have many letters of introduction to people in foreign countries. One of his letters is from President Mc-Kinley and Secretary of State Hay has given him one to all the United States ministers and consuls.

> On the steamer he may meet Alfred Vanderbilt and his companions from Yale, who are also on a globe-trotting journey, and if they are not on this steamer he will join them after landing at Yokahoma. Mr. Childs will remain in Japan over a month. He has an intimate friend, a Japanese, who was a classmate at Yale. Through this acquaintance he will be entertained by a count, viscount, marquis and several governors, whom Mr. Child. met at New Haven, where they visited Mr. Childs's classmate. The Brattleboro boy will travel a month on the island, and will have exceptional advantages from which the ordinary tourists are barred. He will don the Japanese costume after leaving the large cities, and will travel in the inland territory in a jinrikisha, a two-wheel ed conveyance drawn by a native laborer. Mr. Childs will sail through the beautiful inland sea. At Tokio, the capital, he will be entertained at the royal houses by the officials from whom he has received invitations. Mr. Childs's intimate Japanes friend is a brother of one of the Mikado's > secretaries. From the lower end of Japan Mr. Childs will proceed to Shanghal, China, and from there to Pekin, China, in company with a Chinese student formerly at Yale, whose father is one of the potentates of the country. Mr. Childs's next objec-tive point will be Hong Kong, and from there he will go inland to Foo Chow and > Returning to Hong Kong he will take passage to Manila. There he will meet young Vanderbilt and his companions. The young men will attempt to get out on the firing line. They will go to Iloilo and as many other places in the Philippines as possible. Returning to, Hong Kong Mr. Childs will sail to Singapore, in the Straits settlement, the extreme southern part of Asia. He will meet there a Chinese classmate. The two young men will go to Ba-tavia, Island of Java, where the father of the Chinaman owns a big plantation. The young men will be here a month, arriving about Jan. 1, 1900. Between Singapore and Java they will cross the equator.

From Java they will go back to Singapore.

The next stopping place will be Columbo, Island of Ceylon. From there our traveler will go to Calcutta. He will be in India a month or more and will visit Beneras, Lucknow, Labore, Delhi and other famous places, his journey northward extending as far as the base of the Himalaya mountains. He will return on the t coast to Bombay, and from there will take passage on a steamer to Aden, the southern port of Arabia. After passing through the Red Sea and the Suez canal he will next travel in Egypt, going by rail and camel down the Nile to the First Cataract, visiting the pyramids and historic places.

From Alexandria he will cross the Mediteranean Sea to Constantinople. Athensand Pirious in Greece will be visited be ore going to Brindisi, "the heel of the boot,' in Italy. By rail he will proceed through Naples, Rome, Florence and Venice. After spending some time in Geneva 6:15 o'clock Sunday evening when Miss and Berne, Switzerland, he will go to Minnie Dietrich read her report of the Heidelberg, Germans, where he will meet German friends.

His itinerary next is down the Rhine to Frankfort and Cologne, Brussels and Holland, through France to Paris in time for the exposition. He will live in the Latin quarter of Paris with 15 to 20 Yale men, and will make an automobile trip to the southern part of France. Returning to Paris he will meet his father, W. H. Childs. Before sailing for home via Liverpool, they will travel through England, otland and Ireland, reaching this country about July 1, 1900.

Mr. Childs will send to The Phoenix from Japan, China, the Philippines, Java, India and other places letters in regard to his travels.

ELITE VAUDEVILLE STARS.

An Excellent Performance Being Giver This Week at the Bustle Theatre.

The Elite Vaudeville Stars are giving the best vaufeville performance ever seen in town, at the rustic theatre this week. They have appeared, rain or shine, every afternoon and evening, and when the weather has been pleasant large audiences have been present. The entertainment opens with the Batchelor Sisters, playing on the violin and viola, and their numbe also includes mandolin playing, singing, dancing, etc. They came here from Tony Pastor's theatre in New York. BRATTLEBORO'S BEST GAME.

The Boys Played Like Professionals Yesterday and Downed Hinsdate 13

Brattleboro played the best game of the season and won handly from Hinsdale on the home grounds yesterday afternoon. Guiheen pitched a steady, effective game, and led in batting. The work of all the players was satisfactory, and if the boys can keep yesterday's pace they will have no difficulty in winning a large per cent of their games. G. Smith played a snappy game for Hinsdale and made the longes drive of the game. Finn, a railroad man who played with Hinsdale, made a good record with the stick. The score:

PUTNEY A WINNER.

Score Was 16 to 15 Against Brattlebor In Saturday's Contest.

Errors of omission were as great factors as those of commission in the loss of the game on the home ground Saturday to Putney. Misjudgment of balls, throwing too late, falling down when after the ball, were some of the costly plays which do not figure on the score. Most of the spec-tators thought that Malley's decisions in calling G. Tasker out at second and H. Smith safe at third had an important bearing on the result of the game. Guiheen and Brasor and Bush and Underwood exchanged places in the last two innings Bush struck out two men in the ninth inning. H. Smith and T. Smith of Hins-dale did the best playing for Putney, and Allen and G. Tasker excelled for Brattle boro.

Danny Maher, thanks to the entreaties of his friends, has succeeded in obtaining his release from the suspension inflicted by his employer, W. H. Clark. his claims to a salary of $10,000 a year, but it is a wise move as a year of idleness would certainly end his career as a rider.

The doctors gave the lawyers a bitter pill at Springfield, Mass., Saturday, defeating them 21 to 20 in an exciting ball game. Dr. Mortimer Stoddard twirled for the doc tors. He struck out 12 men and at the bat secured three hits, of which one was a twobagger. The Republican speaks of the successful, but "desperate headfirst-diving base running of Stoddard."

A Minneapolis paper of a recent date contained the following notice of a play made by a former Brattleboro boy now with the Detroit team: "No finer catch than that of Barrett on Bail's drive between left and centre has been seen here in years. It was a hard race between the stocky little fielder and the ball, but the youngster got there after a hard dash of 50 yards. He rau on quite a bit after making the catch, and no one knew he had the ball till he turned and threw it in. The applause was warm and generous." The Rutland Herald of yesterday said

H. Spafford has a likely looking string of six Brattleboro horses at the grounds, four of which are entered here next week. None of these horses have been given any work on the local track yet and the trainer says it is doubtful if they will be worked much more before the races. The horses under Trainer Spafford's care which are entered for next week are as follows: The pacer Merry-Go-Round, a bay stallion, entered by W. H. Minor of Brattleboro in the 2.26 class Tuesday; the bay mare Lorna Doone, an other Brattleboro pacer, entered in the 2 32 class on Wednesday; Frank S., a chestnut gelding, owned by J. A. Taylor of Brattleboro and entered as a pacer in the 2.17 class Tuesday; the trotter Ginger Wilkes, a gray gelding, entered in the 2.23 class Wednesday by W. H. Minor of Brattleboro. Spafford has two more horses in his string, one of which was entered fo the three-year-old class, which did not fill

Major Whittle in Poor Health.

On account of the disquieting rumors concerning the health of Maj. D. B. Whitie, the evangelist, his physician, Dr. N. P. Wood, of Northfield made the following statement Wednesday: "Maj. Whittle is suffering from chronic rheumatism and neuralgia. The former was contracted while doing evangelistic work among the soldiers in the spring of 1898, and the latter is the sequel of malaria, contracted at the same time. He is dressed every day and is able to walk a little about his house and grounds. While altogether he is in a very debilitated condition, his appetite and courage are excellent, and the prospect for improvement is reasonably good.
